The Seal Craft is built differently. A patent-pending 3,000-denier TPU hull delivers superior puncture resistance, tear strength, and abrasion durability that standard 1,200-denier PVC simply can't match. TPU flexes around obstacles instead of failing on them – absorbing the impacts that would destroy conventional watercraft and holding up across the repeated stress of real-world rescue conditions.

For a rescue platform operating in the field, that difference matters every single deployment.
